Fugitive Ex-Convict Slain in Gun Battle Today

SHOCKLEY IS LOSER IN 15-MINUTE FIGHT

Alleged Assailant of Policeman Defiant Until the End

Shawneetown, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Willard Shockley, 23-year-old ex-convict for whom a "kill on sight" order had been issued, was shot and killed here early today in a 15-minute gun battle with Sheriff Ed Hines and Deputy Reuben Davis.

Shockley had been hunted since Wednesday night in connection with the shooting of State Highway Patrolman Cecil Brokmyer, who is in a critical condition in a Harrisburg hospital.

From eye witness accounts of the battle which raged in the heart of the downtown district shortly before 8 o'clock, Shockley was trapped in this manner:

He was picked up by Noah Kurstine, owner of a mine, about nine miles west of the city on Highway 13. Kurstine thought he recognized the youth from newspaper photographs but drove on into town and parked in front of the court house.

When he got out of the car—he was going to tip off the sheriff—Shockley dashed into a nearby clothing store. He ordered a pair of overalls but before they could be wrapped up Deputy Sheriff Davis came in the front door and ordered him to surrender.

Defiant to End

Shockley whirled around and reached for his gun. Davis fired the first shot into his stomach. The youth then ran out a back door, firing several shots that went wild.

He ran nearly two blocks and hid behind a small shed from where he again opened fire on the officers. He finally climbed into the back seat of a parked automobile.

When Sheriff Hines asked him to give himself up and throw down his two guns, Shockley yelled: "Come and get me."

Sheriff Hines ordered the large crowd of curious onlookers to stand back, then he and Davis started blasting away at the desperado.

The machine was riddled with bullets. One hit Shockley in the right temple and emerged above the left ear. At least three others hit his mark.

When they removed his body from the car officers found one of the guns and four knives.

State Police on Way

Sheriff Hines said he had notified the state highway police they had Shockley cornered and that patrolmen were on their way here.

State Official Killed in Auto Accident Today

Pontiac, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—James P. Cox, 48, of Villa Park, Ill., fiscal supervisor of the state department of public welfare, was killed today when his automobile collided with a truck on the Greenland Park bridge, five miles south of here on U. S. highway 66.

His wife was taken to a hospital and believed to be not serious.

Cox had been welfare supervisor since 1934, succeeding John C. Weigel when the latter became administrative assistant in the department.

As a boy, Cox was a member of the Paulist choir of Chicago which went to Rome to sing in the Vatican. He was chief clerk in the Joliet offices of the E. J. & E. railroad before entering state service.

Mr. and Mrs. Cox left Springfield early today to keep an appointment in Chicago. State police said the Cox car apparently skidded on wet pavement entering the bridge and struck the side of a truck driven by John Harrison Sterling, Ill. Another automobile, driven by Edward Barnes of Atlanta, Ill., hit the Cox machine from the rear. Cox died enroute to a hospital here. Occupants of the other machines were not hurt.

We're Sorry

The Thanksgiving Editor wishes to inform all turkey conest workers that a few of the first papers last night were issued with an error in the R & S Shoe Store puzzle sentence. In the third puzzle line from the top, the last word in the line should begin with a "G" and have only two spaces after the "G". (This will make the word "Get" when correctly solved.) A few papers were issued with a "C" and three spaces after it instead of a "G" and two spaces as it should have been. We're sorry!

PROSECUTION IN RUSSELL KIDNAP CASE COMPLETED

Nature of Defense Will Be Revealed in Court Monday Morning

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The nature of Jack Russell's defense against a charge that he kidnaped and murdered a youthful Kansas salesman will be disclosed Monday in Federal court to the first mixed jury in the history of Cook county qualified to impose the death penalty.

The government completed its case against the Oklahoma convict yesterday and court was recessed until Monday. The jury of seven women and five men heard prosecutors read a 26-page statement which they said Russell signed, describing the killing of William Scott Hamilton, 22, of Arkansas City, Kan., July 13.

The purported confession disclosed that Hamilton was shot when he sought to escape from Russell, who had held him prisoner for nearly two days. The statement said the two were sitting in Hamilton's car when the youth suddenly lunged for Russell's revolver.

"I felt Hamilton grab the gun," the statement read. "He had the barrel and I had the stock. He was trying to jump out of the car as we fought. Then the gun exploded and the bullet hit him in the head."

"I saw immediately that he was killed. I was frantic. I wanted to keep him from being identified right away, so I took off his trousers, his shorts, and his shoes and socks. I wanted to get away. I had never killed a man before. I killed a man—I wanted to get away."

The government charges that Russell kidnaped Hamilton near Pittsburg, Kan., on July 12, forced him to drive to a deserted gravel road near Ringwood, Ill., and there shot and killed him. The alleged kidnapping, for which Russell is on trial under the Lindbergh law, occurred the day after the desperado escaped from the Oklahoma state penitentiary, where he was serving 10 years for robbery. He was recaptured near Cess, Ark., on July 18.

The statement also described Russell's escape from the custody of a deputy warden who had taken him to McAlester to see an oculist, and the kidnapping of Robert Edward Brown, 72, a photographer. It also told of Russell's trip to Kenosha, Wis., after the shooting of Hamilton, the kidnapping of Bud Egnolm; the theft of a car in Kansas City as he doubled back, and his capture.

Russell wept as the closing paragraphs of the confession were read. They expressed his appreciation for the kind treatment given him by the Oklahoma prison warden.

NAZIS SHOOT MORE CZECHS IN CAMPAIGN

Nazi authorities executed three more Czechs today in the second day of their campaign against alleged anti-German acts in Prague.

At the same time their own anti-treason laws was reported extended to the whole protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia, widening their powers in dealing with the Czechs.

Today's executions raised to 12 the number announced officially to have been shot.

Severe penalties are contained in the law for a wide variety of offenses. Death is the sentence in extreme cases.

Nazis asserted there was order in the protectorate, which Germany absorbed last March when the Czechoslovak republic was dismembered.

In the European war activity remained restricted. In addition to yesterday's German flights over British and French territory, Germany reported British fliers attempted to attack Wilhelmshaven.

London heard meanwhile that the raider which sank the British tanker Africa Shell earlier in the week off the East African coast had been identified as the German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer.

Nazis Extend Raids

The report was doubly significant: It meant Germany had extended raiding to the Indian Ocean, a prominent field for such operations in the World War; it meant the allies at least had an idea of where to look for one of the two pocket battleships Germany sent through the British blockade.

The state department in Washington reported 44 American ships had been detained—four of them twice—by belligerents for examination of papers or cargo since the war started. The average period of detention was eight days.

By Installments

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The old-fashioned, long-time courtship has not gone out of fashion.

Fay Smith and her mother walked into the auditor's office and dumped 450 pennies on the counter. They represented 450 visits by her intended, Ernest Faler.

"Every time he came to pay for the license," she explained.

Son of Robbery Victim Shoots Father's Slayer

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Pasquale Addante, 13 years old, sat behind the counter of his father's small grocery store last night reading a school book when a Negro robber entered.

"Give me your money," growled the robber, pointing a pistol at Pasquale.

"We haven't much money here," protested the boy. "You wouldn't take it would you?"

The gunman took $10 from the cash drawer and turned to go when the boy's father, Vito, 42, emerged from the rear living quarters with his wife and two small children.

"Push the kids on the floor," shouted Addante to his wife as he fired a small calibre pistol at the robber. Simultaneously the gunman fired. Addante slumped to the floor, mortally wounded with a bullet near his heart.

Pasquale picked up the fallen pistol and fired three shots. Crying with pain, the robber staggered through the doorway with Pasquale in pursuit. The boy fired four more shots at the man, who escaped after returning two ineffective shots.

Fled Hospital

A few minutes later the gunman appeared at Provident hospital. He had been shot in the side, knee and arm. Before the nurse could summon a physician there was a commotion, at the receiving room door. Someone was bringing in the already dead Addante to the same room occupied by his slayer. The robber leaped from a table and staggered into the darkness.

At a police station Pasquale, a seventh grade pupil, gave an emotional account of the shooting.

"When I saw dad on the floor, all I could think of was to kill the man who shot him," said the youngster. "I crawled on the floor to the gun, picked it up, and started firing. It was the first time I had ever shot a gun in my life."

His father's death came during his fourth encounter with robbers. Mrs. Addante said the man who killed her husband was the same robber who held up the store a year ago. Last January Addante killed a Negro during an Addante robbery.

County Jail in West Virginia Hit by Scandal

Sutton, W. Va., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Seventeen persons and the turnkey of the Braxton county jail were under indictment today on charges ranging from adultery to conspiracy to kill and rob because of a hunter's tale of a wild night spent in the prison.

The county grand jury returned the indictments late yesterday after a three-day investigation of jail conditions. The jurors also recommended the dismissal of Turnkey Curt Ellison in the presentment handed to Judge Jake Fisher.

The investigation was started after John Dolan, arrested for hunting Sunday, told of his night's stay in the prison.

A "kangaroo court" in the jail fined every new prisoner $2 and took the money by force or threats, the grand jury resolution said. One prisoner possessed a key to the women's quarters and admitted other inmates, the grand jurors stated.

Prosecuting Attorney C. A. Duffield, Jr., said some prisoners named in the bills had been transferred, some were from other counties and others had been taken to the state penitentiary. Those still in the county were ordered arraigned today before Judge Fisher.

Ellison was indicted with four prisoners on a charge of conspiracy to steal and inflicting injury in pursuit thereof upon Garland Smallwood; three prisoners were accused of conspiracy to kill and rob Arthur Criner, three with conspiracy to steal from John Dolan and assault him, two with felonious assault upon Tom Frame while stealing, and five with the armed robbery of Dana Dean.

Misdemeanor bills on morals charges were returned against two women prisoners and three male inmates.

Had Fire Drill

Florence, S. C., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A pencil of flame leaped under the balcony. Seventeen-year-old Woodrow Cook, usher in the theater, noticed it.

He stopped the motion-picture machine, walked on the stage, and said:

"Folks, you know there is a state law requiring fire drills to be held in theaters. We are going to have one now."

He asked the patrons to form a line and file out. A few minutes after they were on the street, parts of the room began collapsing.

The fire which broke out at a matinee yesterday razed the building. The damage was estimated at about $35,000.

ACCIDENT AT MENDOTA IS FATAL TO ONE

Sycamore Farmer Dies This Morn; Second Crash Today

(Telegraph Special Service)

Mendota, Nov. 18.—A second head-on collision of automobiles occurring near here in two days due to dense fog, sent nine persons to the Harris hospital this morning to receive treatment for injuries ranging from fractured bones and severe cuts to bruises and shock.

Sixteen persons, in all, were involved in the accidents, which have resulted in one death, Jesse Buzzell, Sycamore farmer, having died at 6:20 o'clock this morning at the Harris hospital from injuries sustained yesterday morning when his automobile collided with a machine driven by John Swanson of Moline, east of here.

Today's accident occurred about 8:30 A. M. on Route 92, near Van Orin, west of Mendota. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weise and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Murry, all of Rock Island, were enroute from Rock Island to Chicago when the accident occurred. The Rock Island residents, riding in a Ford V-8 sedan, attempted to pass a truck, and failed to observe an oncoming car, a Dodge sedan, in which Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Coulton and their three young children of Elmhurst were traveling west. The Coultons were on their way to Iowa City, to attend the homecoming football game.

Mrs. Weise sustained a fractured pelvis, and Mr. Murry received cuts on his face. Mr. Weise and Mrs. Murry were not serious.

KUHN'S WIFE TO BE WITNESS IN DEFENSE MONDAY

Bund Leader's Subdued Hausfrau Has Stayed Out of Court

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A quiet hausfrau behind headlines—Mrs. Fritz Kuhn—will take the stand in her publicized husband's defense when the larceny trial of the stout leader of the German-American bund is resumed Monday.

Chief Counsel Peter L. Sabbatino announced at week-end adjournment yesterday that Mrs. Kuhn, mother of two children, would be called as a witness.

Subdued and undemonstrative, she has remained out of the public spotlight thrown on Kuhn as a result of his bund work and appearance before the Dies committee investigating un-American activities.

So far she has not been seen at any session of the trial, during which the prosecution has pictured her middle-aged husband as an amorous demagogue who stole bund money to pay the furniture bills of blonde Mrs. Florence Camp and a doctor bill of Mrs. Virginia Cogswell, the much-married "Georgia peach."

The defense has acknowledged that Kuhn sent telegrams to Mrs. Camp in which he addressed her as "my everything" and signed himself with "love and kisses."

Judge, Attorney Clash

Defense counsel Sabbatino and Judge James G. Wallace clashed yesterday when the judge refused to permit Sabbatino to question as he wished—after putting them on the stand—Mayor LaGuardia, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, Commissioner of Investigation William B. Herlands and other officials.

LaGuardia was in the courtroom less than two minutes.

Stopped each time after Judge Wallace held that the defense contention that "unseen forces" had been attempting to discredit Kuhn was immaterial to the trial issue of whether the bund leader

City Officials To Plead For Resumption of I. C. Passenger Trains Here

Albert Tice of this city, former Illinois Central trainman, appeared before the city council last evening and spoke in support of action to secure restoration of passenger train service on the Freeport-Clinton branch of the railroad. Members of the council discussed the subject and a resolution was adopted that City Attorney Gerald Jones and members of the commission go to Springfield Monday to attend a hearing before the Illinois Commerce commission. Several other cities and villages along the route propose to have representatives at the hearing and urge the resumption of daily passenger train service.

Mayor Slothower several days ago received notice of a hearing to be held before the commerce commission, the railroad company having petitioned to be permitted to discontinue the accommodation coach service now in operation on a local freight train.

WORST BLAZE IN 39 YEARS HIT VILLAGE

Foley Garage Building and Contents Fuel of the Flames

The village of Walnut was the scene of a $50,000 fire this morning (its worst conflagration since 1900) when the huge Foley garage building was wiped out by fire of undetermined origin. The large building housed the George Foley garage and service station, a garage operated by W. E. McDonaid, the Roy Brewer barber shop and the James Barnes bowling alleys.

Cleo Hanson, night attendant the Foley garage, and James Deisher, an employee in the bowling alleys, were seriously burned and were removed to the Perry Memorial hospital at Princeton, where their condition was reported to be serious. Both men were asleep in the building when the fire broke out about 6:30 this morning.

Hanson awoke when a section of the roof collapsed and attempted to remove some of the cars, but was driven back by the intense heat and was forced to the basement where he finally succeeded in climbing out of a basement window. Deisher, who slept in the section of the big building in which the bowling alleys were located, was also awakened by the collapse of a portion of the roof. He attempted to reach the hiding place of the receipts before leaving the building and was badly burned. Part of his clothing was burned from his body.

Both men were taken to private homes where they received emergency treatment and later were taken to the hospital at Princeton.

Four Departments Called

Fire departments from Sterling, Princeton and Ohio responded to emergency calls and the truck from Manlius broke down enroute to Walnut. Water pressure was badly hampered when the high tension power lines which run alongside of the Foley garage building, were burned and it became necessary to sever the lines discontinuing the service. Only a meager water supply in the village storage tank was available and the firemen were kept busy extinguishing minor fires which started on residences, some almost two blocks distant from the burning garage.

The Walnut fire truck, and Walnut school bus which were kept in the Foley garage could not be removed and were consumed in the flames, together with about a dozen trucks and cars which were stored in the building.

Citizens and firemen succeeded in removing some of the cars and trucks and state highway department equipment was removed before the roof collapsed. The building consisted of a basement and first floor in both of which cars and trucks were stored.

The apartment house owned by Elmer Kink and occupied by the

Switchman Badly Injured in Local Accident

Terry S. McGaw, 53, of Amboy, member of the Illinois Central switch crew in this city, narrowly escaped being crushed to death last evening about 6:20 at the Seventh street crossing of the I. C. tracks. The switch crew was engaged in switching operations in the yards and McGaw was flagging traffic west of the tracks with his lantern.

A car driven by R. A. Comstock, Rochelle confectioner, approached from the west on Seventh street, struck the switchman and pinned his body against the side of a box car. McGaw had stopped one car and was attempting to halt the Comstock machine when he was struck.

When removed, McGaw was believed to have suffered a broken back but reports today indicated that he sustained a fractured pelvis and possible internal injuries. He was reported to be resting comfortably at noon today but will be confined for several weeks.

Mrs. D. A. Comstock, 627 Lincoln highway, Rochelle, mother of the driver of the car, sustained a broken arm and minor cuts about the face from broken glass. Comstock received only minor cuts and bruises. All were removed to the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital. Mrs. Comstock was removed to the Lincoln hospital at Rochelle last night and her son returned to his home.

Riotous Homecoming at Madison Lands Ten Youths Behind Bars

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Eight University of Wisconsin students and two other youths were arrested last night in a riotous homecoming celebration during which police were forced to use tear-gas bombs and night sticks.

Authorities described the melee around Capitol Square as the "worst in 15 years."

Those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct. Several high school and grade school boys also were ordered to report to the police station as a result of property damage.

Police and Demonstrators Occurred at the Orpheum Theater

Repaired by two tear-gas grenades after several attempts to force their way into the theater, the youths raided a nearby fruit store and started throwing fruit and vegetables.

Several city busses were stopped and the occupants shaken up when the crowd rocked the vehicles.

Authorities estimated from 500 to 1,500 young persons took part in demonstrations.

MODERNIZATION

by PAUL T. HAAGEN, A.I.A.

Home Hardware Styles Change

Many Materials Used for Hinges and Locks

Tastes in finished hardware for houses has "changed" materially, just as tastes in most other parts of the house have changed. The elaborately "decorative" embossed combination knob and key plates and large conspicuous brass butts, or hinges that protrude into the room in an important manner are no longer a fait.

It is no longer a crime to paint these butts. In fact, for inside work, small, unobtrusive steel or iron butts prepared for paint are now commonly used and painted with the doors. Hardware has "gone period" and in English, Spanish, or Italian houses we demand wrought iron, either with a semi-polish finish or possibly a rust finish, to give the appearance of age.

Various Types Seen

In colonial houses we range from the wrought-iron thumb latches that our humble ancestors beat out on the anvil for their little cottages to the exquisite brass and silver cutwork plates with their graceful drop handles of the manor houses of the gentry.

In between are the various types of iron spring latches exposed on the surface of the thin door they used and the same locks with iron or brass boxes to cover their "innards" that our nicer progenitors preferred. When thicker doors were used, mortised locks were installed with small round or oval brass knobs with neat brass rings or rosettes, to cover the hole in the door. With these, simple brass key holes were inserted in the wood—the whole giving a restrained, refined appearance.

Keep Periods Straight

All these styles have been revived and are used somewhat too indiscriminately. Try to keep your periods in hardware straight; you should no more put Old English wrought-iron locks on a Dutch Colonial house than you should put green blinds with owl cut-outs on an English manor house.

To use a paradox or two, you can modernize your house by replacing your old hardware with new "old" models.

WALL PANELS

In rooms where a paneled effect is desired, wall paper may be applied between wood strips which form the paneling and thus breaks up large expanses of plain wall surfaces.

LIVABLE SMALL HOUSE

WHITE REFLECTS GREATEST LIGHT SCIENCE FINDS

In all lighting tests, white is far ahead of other colors in reflecting value. According to scientific experiments, white's reflecting power is between 82 and 89 per cent. Cream rates at 72 to 78 per cent, while ivory comes next in the scale with a percentage of 62 to 80. Then comes light pink at around 66 per cent, yellow at 57 per cent, and flesh color at 51 per cent.

Buff and light gray also test at 51 per cent, while light green and aluminum gray rate at 45 and 41 per cent, respectively. Lower in the scale come light blue and sage green with a percentage of 36. Dark red reflects only 13 per cent of the light that strikes its surface, while dark green and dark blue soak up all but nine and eight per cent of the light that hits them. Black, at the bottom of the list, is rated close to zero in its reflecting qualities.

REAR PORCH CLOSETS

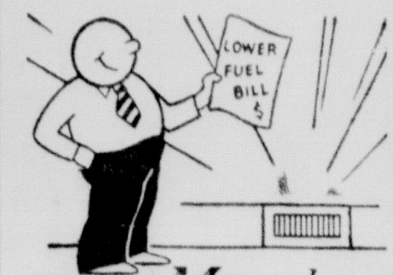

Every home should have plenty of storage space, and no home ever has enough closets.

If, in the building, a house has not been given enough of this storage room, extra cupboards and shelves and cabinets can be built in with a little ingenuity.

If a house has a rear porch there may be convenient space on it for that extra closet for raincoats and umbrellas, overshoes and rubbers and all wearing apparel which brings mud and dirt into the house. Such a closet is sometimes known as an outdoor wardrobe—and can be built exactly to fit the space of the porch on which it is to stand. It may be a portable unit easily moved about, if the need arises to change its position.

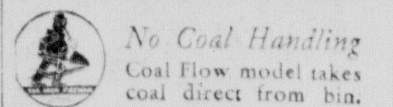

BUILDING COSTS

There is a saying that it always costs twice as much to build as people estimate in the beginning. This is not quite so, although most houses do cost somewhat more than the owner expects. To avoid unexpected expense, work out your plans very carefully and make sure that the specifications cover all the work to be completed and that the building estimates are correct.

Here is a compact, livable small house that will fulfill all the wants of many families. The plan shows two well ventilated corner bed rooms with good closets and a bath between. The living room ceiling extends up into the roof with the roof construction showing and stained a dark brown. The fireplace is at one end of the living room and is a feature of the room. The kitchen is small but quite compact and efficient. One corner of the living room has a space for a small dining table with benches along the walls. The basement stairs descend from a small entry that also serves the kitchen. The basement is under a portion of the house only. A good sized vestibule is to the front of the living room with a coat closet off same. The exterior treatment of the house is in the popular English tradition.

HOT WATER

Enough hot water is always the problem in the summer time when there is no fire in the heating plant. An automatic gas water heater is the solution. It will deliver plenty of hot water at needed times. Automatic hot water heaters can be secured for gas, electricity, oil and kerosene operation.

NEW PLUMBING FIXTURES

Plumbing fixtures are selling today for less than at any time in many years. Modern plumbing adds so much to the comforts of a home and makes an old home really modern that no family should go without the satisfaction that new, up-to-date plumbing fixtures will give.

BRICK STAINS WILL RUB OFF

White Patches May Be Removed With Acid

If the brick walls of your home show white patches under the window sills or anywhere on the wall it is probably due to salts or efflorescence breaking through. The salts are either in the bricks or in the mortar, and when they are dissolved in the water previously absorbed by the wall, they are carried to the surface and deposited there as the water evaporates.

Efflorescence is usually more noticeable in new work than in old, and in many cases the accumulation of salts will disappear in time. The stains may be removed by brushing vigorously with a wire or stiff fiber brush, or by washing with one part of muriatic acid to about six parts of water.

After washing, the walls should be rinsed thoroughly with clear water and then washed down with a solution made from one pint of ammonia to two gallons of water.

The best precaution, however, against efflorescence is to reduce as much as possible the chance for water absorption. Window sills and copings should be so constructed that the water drips off of them and will not run back to the face of the wall.

HINTS FOR HOME OWNERS

Sports Closet

A closet or small room given over to the storage of sports equipment will be appreciated by the home owner during the winter months. An improvement of this kind may be financed with the proceeds of a Modernization Credit Plan loan insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

Racks, hooks, and pegs should be generously provided to hold guns, golf clubs, skates, etc.; there should be sufficient space for sleds, bicycles, tennis racquets, fishing rods, and other sports equipment.

Water Softeners

In many sections of the country the water supply contains hard substances which may have a damaging effect on plumbing and water lines.

Where such conditions prevail, water softeners may be installed to remove the undesirable and harmful elements. There are a number of different types of water softeners, most of which are eligible for installation under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration. Funds for the work are obtainable from lending institutions qualified by the FHA.

Electrical System Repairs

A home wiring system, if permitted to remain neglected, may prove to be a dangerous fire hazard. Nonmetallic sheathed cable,

Bird Shelters Add to Beauty of Landscaping

Our feathered friends need a home.

Here is a combined bird house and weather vane, that will materially add to the appearance of the home or garage when installed and painted to match the finish and harmonize with the home.

Quaint, colorful bird houses present interesting possibilities as a means of decoration.

There should always be some way of access to the interior of such a house so that it may be cleaned and always choose a sunny spot for its placing.

The house shown here is ideal for swallows or martens who like to have their homes placed on a pole and never around trees.

armored cable, rigid metal pipe, or knob and tube may be used safely in rewiring.

Careful check should be made of the light and power equipment in a new home or in modernizing an older structure.

In the case of old dwellings, such a check is doubly necessary. The original installations may have become worn or damaged. The services of a competent electrician should be employed to avoid costly mistakes.

Reducing Drafts

The advent of cold weather will remind many home owners of former discomfort caused by drafty windows and doors.

Aside from heat loss, a drafty house is a health hazard. A thorough job of weatherstripping will do much to eliminate this fault and may be accomplished at reasonable cost. The choice of materials is wide, and selection may be governed by the amount of money the home owner desires to put into the improvement.

GOOD PAINT IS REAL ECONOMY

Covering Will Save Materials Used in Building

Painting is one of the most important operations in the building of the new house, both from the standpoint of appearance and of upkeep. Skimping in painting is the poorest kind of economy. The outside paint is the skin that protects the structure and it is one of the most conspicuous features of the house. Discolored or cracked or peeling paint will spoil the appearance of the best-designed house.

As soon as the paint coat starts to give way the whole exterior structure is open to the attacks of the elements. If the owner is particular about the appearance of his house and its structural integrity, he will repaint the exterior as soon as he sees the slightest tendency of failure of the paint surface. If he lets it go until real deterioration sets in, the expense will be far greater in repainting, because all the falling paint must be removed before the new paint is applied.

To put new paint over disintegrating old paint is worse than the waste of time and money involved in putting on the new coat, for paint has only the strength of its base coat; if that has lost its grip on the surface to which it is supposed to cling, no amount of new paint put on top of it will avail to strengthen that hold.

Next to poor workmanship and materials, moisture is the greatest factor in paint failure. Moisture comes from within the house as well as from without, so to insure a good paint job the back of the all outside wood should be pointed before it is erected.

The original painting job, therefore, is of the greatest importance. First-class materials expertly mixed and placed are the only insurance against large future repair bills.

SHOWER STALLS GROW IN HOME POPULARITY

Shower stalls, either as an extra bath or in place of the main bath, are becoming quite popular. Federal Housing Administration officials say.

When they are used, wall materials highly resistant to moisture or corrosion and durable waterproof base slabs should be selected. Particular care must be used to prevent serious leaks. A tight joint between the drain and the base slab, periodically inspected for recaulking, is necessary.

In 1900 only one person in 10 had a life insurance policy. Now every other American has one.

Insurance offers a means of obtaining funds for this improvement. Private lending institutions, qualified by FHA, advance the money needed.

(This story has a moral: You can heat comfortably and more Economically with Home Lumber Co.'s Coal).

"Yes Sir...
I Sure Opened Jim's Eyes"---

Marge and Jim were over visiting last night. Jim and I got to talking about politics and sports and what not. Finally he asked me what I was doing about putting in my winter coal supply.

"Oh," I said, "I've ordered mine from the Home Lumber and Coal Company."

"We sure took a beating on OUR coal bill last year," Jim replied. "And then our house was never as warm as yours. Probably cost you twice as much, though."

Yes, Sir, I sure opened Jim's eyes!

I got out pencil and paper and proved that Mary and I spent less for fuel than they did, yet our homes are about the same size. And ours wasn't chilly like theirs, either! It's just like I told Jim. Buy your coal from a reliable dealer who knows what type of coal you should use.

INSTALL NEW OFFICERS OF DOROTHY CHAPTER; NEARLY 400 WITNESS PUBLIC RITE

White chrysanthemums and snapdragons glorified the candlelit lodge room of Brinton Memorial Masonic temple last evening, when recently-elected officers of Dorothy chapter, No. 371, Order of Eastern Star, were installed. Approximately 400 members and guests, including visitors from Rockford, Freeport, Sterling, Forreston, Rochelle, Polo, Mt. Morris, Holcomb, Lanark, Rock Falls, Amboy, and Haldane witnessed the public ceremony of the seating officers for 1940.

Interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, words of greeting and appreciation and presentation of jewels, the impressive ritual ushered in another year for the local chapter.

Mrs. Mildred Beier and Mrs. Alma Coss acted as candlelighters at the opening of the ceremony. Ivory tapers gleamed in crystal candelabra on each of the star pedestals. A bouquet of white chrysanthemums was placed at the base of the pedestal in the east, and snapdragons and chrysanthemums were combined in a bouquet for the piano. All of the incoming officers were attired in white formal gowns.

Installing Staff

Mrs. Beulah Tennant, district deputy, acted as installing officer. Assisting her were: Mrs. Pearl Rickard, installing marshal; Mrs. Nell Gearhart, installing chaplain; Mrs. Lila Hart, installing organist; soloist, Mrs. Anastasia Bieng-fang of Rochelle.

During the candlelighting ceremony, Mrs. Biengfang sang "The Star," by Rogers. While Mrs. Ruth Emmert, the new worthy matron, was at the altar, the soloist sang a second number, "Bless Thou, O God, This Day," and after a short talk made by Mrs. Emmert, following her installation, she sang again, choosing "O Lovely Night." Mabel Oakland of Rochelle accompanied the soloist, whose final number was "The Lord's Prayer."

Robert Tennant played a violin solo, complimenting his father, H. La Vern Tennant, the new worthy patron. Mrs. Hart was his accompanist.

New Officers

Other officers installed were: Associate matron, Miss Rachel Kennedy; associate patron, Lawrence Santelman; secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Barrowman; associate conductress, Miss Ruby Grimes; chaplain, Mrs. Martha Gardner; marshal, Miss Ruth Brown; organist, Miss Lolla Quick; Adah, Miss Jean Thompson; Ruth, Mrs. Elsie Burns; Esther, Mrs. Mary Huebner; Martha, Miss Margaret Sprout; Electa, Mrs. Betty Eichler; warder, Miss Charlotte Lou Rugles; sentinel, Grover Hoberg; color bearer, Gavin Dick.

Harold Emmert, Grover Gehant and Frank Kreim were escorts for the installing officers. Mrs. Emmert's honorary escort included Mesdames Grace Stephan, Laila Gehant, Ethel Kreim, Ethel Haines, Bess Hintz, Lois Wolfe, Regina Buchner, Margaret Hey, Fannie Ware, and Carrie Coe. As the marshal escorted Mrs. Emmert to the east, her escort formed an archway with white chrysanthemums.

Receive Jewels

A past matron's jewel, a gift from the chapter, was presented to Mrs. Martina Gardner, the retiring worthy matron, by Mrs. Mildred Beier. A past patron's jewel was given to H. R. Gardner, with Earl Bastian making the presentation. A gift from the '39 officers was presented to Mrs. Gardner by Miss Rachel Kennedy. Short talks were made by the worthy matron, worthy patron, and the installing officers.

A brief reception was held in the lodge room, following the installation. Afterward, refreshments were served in the banquet room. Bowls of white chrysanthemums and snapdragons on mirror plateaus trimmed the officer's table, lighted by ivory tapers.

The new officers will conduct their first meeting on Friday evening, Dec. 1. A scramble supper will precede the chapter session, which will be followed by bridge.

BENEFIT PARTY

Twenty-five tables were arranged, Chinese checkers, 500 and bridge, Chinese checkers, 500 and Swiss at the benefit card party sponsored Thursday evening by St. Anne's Guild. Favors were awarded for high scores at each table.

Mrs. Frank Deutsch and Mrs. John Devine were co-hostesses for the evening. In two weeks, the Guild members will conclude their series of five benefit parties.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

UNEMPLOYMENT—MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE WAR

The barometer of national income is heading upwards again after its ascent was halted temporarily by the 1938 recession. With the aid of the war boom, it is expected, the income will hit the 70 billion mark predicted early this year.

This is cheerful news to everyone but the unemployed. To them statistics of national income don't mean very much. Before the war began, it was estimated that 10,500,000 persons were still without employment in private industry. This figure may have been reduced some by the spurt resulting from conflict abroad, but it is still too close to the 10 million mark.

The average national income in the United States during the past 20 years has been 63½ billion dollars annually. The average number of persons unemployed each year during the same period is six million. In other words, the apparent national income for 1939 will exceed the average by about six billion dollars. But the number of unemployed, which should respond to income figures conversely, is still about four million above the average.

National income figures have never been a faithful indicator of employment. Even during the years before 1929, income figures reacted independently of employment statistics because of a variety of almost incalculable factors which entered the picture.

For instance, in 1922 unemployment jumped sharply 1½ million the year before to 4½ million; but, instead of declining, national income showed a slight increase. The national income increased 10 billion dollars in 1923 and employment gained from 1½ to 2½ million. The relationship, if any, seems to be somewhat distant.

Greatest discrepancies between the two sets of figures are reflected during America's black years after 1929. Both employment and national income settled down nearly to rock bottom after the Big Crash. The national income reached its lowest point of 40 billion dollars in 1932 when unemployment reached its peak of 12 million. But from that point, income figures began their steady rise while unemployment remained virtually the same.

What has been happening since 1932 is that the people who have jobs have enjoyed the full benefits of increased national income while the jobless have noticed no difference in their financial status. No matter how high income may go, no matter what steps the government may take to provide relief, there will never be security until a greater percentage of people is employed.

One faction in the country today is in favor of "soaking the rich" to dole out contributions to the jobless. That is no solution. There is only one answer: Work must be found for the 10 million.

The unemployment planks should be the most important in 1940's political platforms. Most other matters will hinge on this single issue.

LIBERTY ON DISPLAY

The patience of the American people is sometimes amazing. For years we listened tolerantly, if a little indignantly, to Earl Browder's assaults on our government. More recently we have also endured the taunts of Bund Fuehrer Fritz Kuhn. Both men are professed addicts to the principles of government completely alien to our own.

If Mr. Browder lived in Soviet Russia and presumed to make "suggestions" to the Bolshevik government, he would have been "liquidated" long ago. And if Herr Kuhn were in Germany and didn't like the way Hitler was running the Reich, he would have been eliminated without any fuss.

But both Comrade Browder and Herr Kuhn live in the United States, and both are now on the spot. The Communist leader is charged with using a false name on a passport; the Bund leader, with embezzling funds from the organization he heads. Both are standing squarely on all the rights they would have us exchange for dictatorship. Each is being given a fair trial as a sort of souvenir of American liberties.

UNCLE SAM COMING ACROSS

First Mr. Roosevelt was going to chastise the dictators and aggressors with something stronger than words, but short of war. That was his declaration of intention. To that end he abolished the arms embargo under the terms of which our people could not sell the implements of destruction to anyone. Coupled with that effort, and in order to help abolish the embargo, Mr. Roosevelt promised morally that the law would be a cash and carry proposition.

It has been observed that the cash provision can be evaded by proper use of the import-export bank and other federal agencies, so the cash business can be eliminated at any convenient time.

Now comes the effort to evade the carry provision. To that end eight American ships may be transferred to registration under the flag of Panama, and may carry goods to the allies as soon as crews are available.

We're marching—and not through Georgia.

MORE TIME FOR FUN

The annual clamor urging you to do your Christmas shopping early has begun again, but the stores on Saturday, Dec. 23, will probably be just as jammed with riotous last-minute shoppers as they always are just before the holiday.

This is too bad, because merchants can't very well save their choicest merchandise for the convenience of harassed eleventh hour buyers. It is also a pretty well established fact that getting your toes stepped on and your hat pushed down over your face amid the frenzy of late shopping doesn't help to develop Christmas spirit. And salespersons who should be singing Christmas carols and hanging holly wreaths will probably spend Christmas Eve with their feet in a mustard bath.

Folks who have tried checking off their holiday purchases early have found the holiday season to be a lot less strenuous, and a lot more fun.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, Nov. 17—Stalin is reported via the diplomatic wave lengths to have secretly chosen his successor—a man in his early forties, husky, anti-foreign, rough, forceful and scornful of ordinary courtesies, Alexis Zhdanov, Communist party secretary for Leningrad.

This rising man who is to take over if anything happens to Stalin is probably his No. 1 personal adviser on foreign affairs now. It may have been Zhdanov who inspired or encouraged the understanding with Hitler, because he admires force and likes the Germans. He believes they know what they want and go after it without faltering.

Stalin does not like the brain trust type and Zhdanov never has posed as a scholar. If he gets hold of the hammer and sickle, he is expected to wield them even more ferociously than his patron against everything foreign—except what he wants at the moment. When he was made party secretary he forced all foreign consuls out of Leningrad except the Poles, and there was no reason for the Poles to move, in view of what subsequently was done to their country.

No one is closer to Stalin. They walk and talk together and are almost always together in public. On public occasions when a speaker has made a significant point, they may usually be found turning around to look at each other. Zhdanov even has a Stalin moustache.

Some expected he would get Litvinov's place when the foreign commissar withdrew to make way for the German deal, but his present position is probably the more powerful. Also he is head of the commission of foreign relations of the supreme Soviet, which is just one step out of the foreign secretaryship.

The world will see no change in the latest twist of Communist leadership, only intensification, if he gets in.

The old problem of what a man is to do when one government department requires him to do something and another department indicts him for doing it, may be decided at last by the Chicago milk case.

The Supreme Court has a way occasionally of deciding cases without touching the main point involved, and might duck this one which would no doubt have destroyed Solomon's reputation, but the issue is there.

Chicago milk traders from cooperative to distributor, were indicted by the justice department for violating the Sherman act of 1890 by maintaining non-competitive prices and squeezing out the independents. The indictments charged conspiracy from January 1935 until 1938.

But during January and February 1935, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had the Chicago milk market under license, imposing regulations with respect to prices and the disposition of surplus. This expired March 2 of that year, but just 60 days ago, while the anti-trust case was pending, Mr. Wallace stepped in again and took control of the market, again fixing prices to be paid to farmers. However, Mr. Wallace has not been indicted.

Technical legal issue to be decided is whether the milk regulation powers which congress conferred on Wallace mean that congress intended to amend the Sherman act to that extent. But what the perplexed defendants may want to know most is whether they were good patriotic citizens for cooperating with the government on December 31, 1935 and evil conspirators for doing it next day on January 1, or doing the same thing themselves up to last September, and then did they again become patriots for continuing to do it under government auspices thereafter?

Apparently the justice department should have indicted the agriculture department or vice versa.

The classroom manner has come to the Supreme Court, and the court seems to be a little irritated about it. Brilliant and friendly ex-professor, Justice Frankfurter, developed the unusual practice at Harvard of quizzing the class rather than lecturing. Occasionally he sat with the class and questioned a student assigned to the professorial rostrum. On the Supreme Court he has become Professor Quiz transplanted. Frequently he has taken as much time with his question as lawyers with their argument. During the Chicago Milk case Chief Justice Hughes became annoyed, finally leaned forward, told the lawyer his time was short and asked to get on with the case. On another occasion mildest mannered Justice Stone betrayed irritation, and outspoken Justice McReynolds once barked almost sarcastically about Frankfurter's inquisitiveness.

Each member of the Supreme Court is, however, a Supreme Court in himself and Justice Frankfurter is going serenely on his way.

Florence (the little thistle) LaGuardia may be invited by the administration to try to work out a CIO-AFL peace. The New York mayor is an ideal man for the job. He is friendly to both sides. But the question among those officials who are discussing the prospect is whether this is the proper time to get him to try it.

These same officials have been advised from within both labor camps to "let the politicians worry about the AFL-CIO split, but keep your necks out of it unless you want to get hurt." Despite the announced willingness of AFL to negotiate, both Green and Lewis know two people cannot be in the same spot at the same time and they both want the spot.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: At the inquest Charlotte Jean denies poisoning the food served. Mrs. Deane reports that Miss Lissey was not herself, because she wore a slip that did not match her dress.

Chapter 37

"Thank you, Mrs. Deane." The coroner's eyes were very grave, and his lips firm. "I realize that this is a very important piece of evidence indeed. You offer it to show that Miss Lissey was disturbed in her mind before she came to the party at all?"

"Yes, Dr. Mayhew."

"Thank you, Mrs. McBain, please."

Mrs. McBain in a dark dress that emphasized her pallor, took the chair he indicated. Her hands shook a little, and she laid them together in her lap. Dr. Mayhew looked at her sharply.

"This has been a shock to you, Mrs. McBain?"

"Yes." Her lips trembled.

"Miss Lissey was an intimate friend of yours?"

"I knew her—well."

"You were her confidant in her personal affairs, perhaps?"

"To a very slight extent."

The coroner leaned back, and folded his hands together under his chin. "You have not been sleeping very well, Mrs. McBain?"

"She moved a little, restlessly. You would not expect me to, Dr. Mayhew."

"No, no. I should hardly expect you to. Tell me—is there some particular thought in your mind which keeps you from sleeping?"

Did Miss Lissey tell you something, or did you, perhaps, see something last Sunday afternoon, which is troubling you greatly?"

She put a hand to her eyes suddenly. "No," she faltered.

The clock ticked again.

"You are certain?"

"No."

"You mean, you are not certain?"

"Must I tell—here—in front of everyone?"

The coroner glanced around slowly at the tense expectant faces before him. Dr. McBain glared at him openly as if to compel him to allow his wife to go; the coroner's glance passed on blandly.

past the Deane's, past Michael and Tuck and Bunty, past Charlotte Jean sitting wide eyed on the edge of her chair—to Jared Devoe, upon whose upper lip the tiny beads of perspiration stood plainly.

"I'm afraid you must, Mrs. McBain."

She sighed. Her husband rose suddenly, went to the water cooler in the corner of the room, and brought her a drink. She took it, and held it in her hands as she talked.

"Sunday afternoon—I was sitting beside her. On the wicker couch. She thought no one was near us. Suddenly she said to me, 'If he pays attention to that girl, I'm going to tell her exactly what I know about him, it's enough to—put him out of the sight of all decent people.'"

She stopped.

"He heard," she said dully. "I had been right behind us. I saw his eyes."

"To whom are you referring, Mrs. McBain?"

"I turned slowly, with an air of dread, and her eyes went down the row of faces until they rested on those bright, staring, brown eyes, on the pallid countenance, on those telltale drops of perspiration, there they rested."

"It was Jared Devoe," she said.

"Poison Cabinet?"

"When was this, Mrs. McBain?"

"We were just beginning our tea."

"That was before Mr. Devoe carried out the tray, then?"

"I do not know. I know nothing else." She leaned wearily against her chair. Her face was very white.

"I'm afraid you do, Mrs. McBain. Who was the girl to whom Miss Lissey alluded?"

"Miss Temple."

"Have you any idea what Miss Lissey meant? Do you know what she knew about Mr. Devoe that made her speak so?"

"No, I do not know."

She sipped at the water. Mr. McBain was frowning.

"Very well, then, Mrs. McBain. Dr. Mayhew, we will talk to you now."

He was very straight and tall, and he walked with military precision across the floor.

"Captain John McBain?"

"I do not use the military title," he said briefly.

"Your wife has already told you of this remark of Miss Lissey's, and that it had been overheard?"

"Yes."

"Why did you not wish to have her tell it?"

The answer seems obvious. Because it probably means nothing at all, and it will give her great anguish of mind until the matter is fully cleared up, if she has caused trouble for anyone."

"Can you add anything to the events of Sunday, Dr. McBain?"

"Nothing whatever."

"You knew Miss Lissey quite well, Dr. McBain?"

"We have been colleagues for fourteen years."

"Can you suggest any reason for her death by poisoning?"

"No, I cannot. It seems impossible."

"Most deaths of this kind do, Dr. McBain. Your attitude is that you are unable to understand her suicide, and unwilling to believe it anything more sinister?"

"I cannot conceive of such a possibility for a single moment."

"You know something of poisons, perhaps, Dr. McBain. Can you tell us how the poison which killed Miss Lissey might have been obtained?"

"If it is the one which was named here this afternoon, I may say that it is a common one, and can be obtained at any drug store."

"Without a certificate?"

"I am not sure of that. I am not in the habit of buying poisons in that way, Dr. Mayhew."

"No. Now—here is a point on which we need enlightenment, Dr. McBain. There are stocks of this poison on hand at the University, are there not?"

"Yes."

"Where are they kept?"

"In a laboratory."

"A laboratory open to the public?"

"No. Certainly not."

"Then, what laboratory? And who would have access to it?"

McBain hesitated. "The poison cabinet is kept in Edgar Murchison's laboratory," he said slowly.

"You are speaking of Professor Murchison now? Who is away at present?"

"Yes."

"You say the poison cabinet. Is it, then, kept locked?"

"Yes."

"An Enemy, Too"

"Dr. McBain," the coroner's eyes were round again. "Who possesses the keys to that cabinet?"

"I do," he said flatly.

"No one, except Professor Murchison himself."

"Yes, Professor Murchison is away, I understand. Did he take his keys with him?"

There was more than one person in the row against the wall who held his breath at that question. But now it was on Duncan Murchison that the attention seemed centered. It was his face that drew all eyes, his deep slow breathing and nervous hands that compelled their interest.

"Conscious of that interest, he drew himself up in his chair, and looked his hands together."

"Did he take his keys with him, Dr. McBain?"

"I cannot answer that question, Dr. Mayhew," McBain swallowed hard.

"Do you know, or do you refuse to say?"

McBain looked at Michael fleetingly, but Michael's head was bent.

"I do not know," he said.

Higgins was called next. He had dressed himself for the occasion in a suit of brilliant blue, which set off the inadequacies of his figure rather pitifully, but he was chiefly concerned, not with his unaccustomed garments, but with a look of hair which persisted in falling into his eyes every few seconds. He brushed it back as he faced the coroner.

"Dr. Higgins, you are the campus gardener, I understand, having charge of all the gardens on the Horseshoe?"

"Yes, sir."

"You took care of Miss Lissey's garden?"

"Yes, sir. All them gardens, sir."

"So that you were frequently employed where you could observe unobtrusively what might be going on out there?"

"Beg pardon, sir," Higgins shifted uncomfortably from one foot to the other.

"You often worked where you could see what was going on without anyone noticing you?"

"Yes, sir. Not as 'ow I ever watched 'em, sir."

"No, Mr. Higgins. Of course not. We can understand that. You couldn't avoid seeing whatever there was to see, under the circumstances."

"No, sir," Higgins straightened his shoulders, and darted a swift glance at Michael.

"Then, now that we understand each other, let us come to the point, Dr. Higgins, did you ever see anything that would lead you to believe that Miss Lissey had any enemies?"

"Far as that goes," Higgins said loftily, "I shouldn't have been at all surprised if everybody was her enemies. She was 'at the snootin' and sneakin' all the time. Always standin' 'round a edge to 'ear something wasn't none of 'er business, sir. She was an awful curiosity box, sir."

"You have seen her at such times, Mr. Higgins?"

"Yes, sir. I be weedin' of the garden, may be, when I'd see 'er sippin' 'ere and there. I'd see 'er. She knew as 'ow I'd see her, too, sir, and she didn't like me a bit. We used to quarrel something awful over her garden and flowers."

"So you were an enemy of hers too, Higgins?"

The pale little eyes widened with alarm. "Oh, no, sir. I never said nothing like that. I wasn't enemy, sir. I just didn't like her."

Denver—The law says Colorado citizens will have to observe two Thanksgiving Days this year.

President Roosevelt proclaimed Nov. 23 as the day. Colorado's Republican governor, Ralph Carr, proclaimed Nov. 30.

Attorney General Byron G. Rogers says holidays proclaimed by either the President or the governor become legal ones. So banks, schools and public institutions may close on two Thursdays.

FRENCH FOUNDED SAARLOUIS, NOW IN LINE OF FIRE

by Frances Shelley Wees

Saarouis, whose streets have frequently echoed the boom of belligerent guns in the Saar District, is one of Europe's border towns which has been passed back and forth through the centuries between warring powers, according to a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Since the 1825 plebiscite which returned the Saar to Germany, Saarouis has been known also by the German name of Saarlautern," says the bulletin. "In the present war, French forces for a time occupied portions of the Saar, close to Saarouis. Later they voluntarily abandoned most of their gains, except for certain strategic forests and hills which guard the approaches to the French city of Forbach, about 12 miles southeast of Saarouis. It is around this area that recent engagements have been reported."

French Founded City

"Soon after the French King Louis XIV founded the city in 1680, Saarouis became an important fortress town through the works there of the French military engineers."

"Because of its French origin and connections, it remained in the possession of France when the rest of the Saar region was turned over to the Germans in 1935. It was not until after the defeat of Napoleon that this whole district, including Saarouis, was taken over by the allies, to be transferred in 1815 to the German states of Prussia and Bavaria."

"During the World War, German infantry, artillery, and cavalry stationed there made the city an important military post. On December 1, 1918, when Allied troops entered Germany, Saarouis was occupied briefly by French forces."

"Subsequently, under the terms of the Versailles Treaty, Saarouis along with the rest of the Saar, was for 15 years governed by a League of Nations Commission. The plebiscite of 1935, offering a choice of continuance of the League status, joining France, or reunion with Germany, resulted in an overwhelming majority in favor of incorporation within the Reich."

From Garrison to Industrial Center

"Saarlouis, for more than two centuries after its birth, made its living largely through the activities of the garrisons (French and German) stationed in its barracks."

"Today this city, with a population of some 32,000, is an active industrial center. With conventional coal mines for fuel, its factories turn out such varied products as machinery, arms, wire, leather, cigarettes and beer."

"Still apparent in its architecture and general appearance is the original French influence. Although the old wall and moat have given way to modern buildings and wide streets, some of the ancient fortifications remain. Marshal Ney, one of Napoleon's devoted followers, was born there in 1769."

"On the other hand, years of German rule have resulted in the predominantly Teutonic character of the inhabitants. Civil, court and school officials are German."

"Even before its last return to Germany, the entire Saar District reported that less than one person to each 200 inhabitants spoke French as his native language."

In Saarouis, the French tongue is characteristic of only a few Frenchmen, although a local dialect preserves certain combinations of French and German words. Such is 'Parrpilschirm', meaning umbrella, a blend of the French 'parapluie' and the German 'Regenschirm.'

THE REASON

If this department is skinny today it's because we are off to see the game A. C. Bowers says Wisconsin will win and the contest Fritz Hofmann hopes the Badgers will take... once we said smart money was on Wisconsin. Time will tell.

WANT CAGE GAME

B. F. Cummings, business manager for the Knacks basketball team this season, reports that his club is on the look-out for games with out-of-towners and would welcome applications for games from any teams in the neighborhood.

IT'S A HABIT NOW

Captain George Schultz and his Franklin Grove cribbage team have formed a habit of beating the Dixon firemen's crew and last evening took advantage of the weak playing of Captain Dave Kelly and Joe Miller to win by a close count of 17 to 15. Chief Sam Cramer started in the contest but retired in favor of City Clerk Wayne Smith who with E. L. Fulmer, managed to hold out as winners in their set. Kelly and Miller have failed to "get going" this season and were easy prey for the visiting quartet. Captain Schultz was assisted by John Vogt, Douglas Stultz and Charles Kelley.

TO IOWA GAME

Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Torstenson will be among those cheering for Iowa at the Hawkeyes' game with Minnesota today at Iowa City.

GRADE SCHOOL BASKETBALL

The Safety Patrol of South Central school defeated the North Central Safety Patrol, 12 to 6, last night in a pre season game. Coach Charlie Roundy was the referee. The regular inter school competition will not begin until after Thanksgiving when tournaments are planned. Both the boys and girls of the two schools are practicing nightly.

BOOK GONE, BUT FRANKLIN WINS

The Franklin Grove score book was lost in the shuffle at Lee last night, but the Grovers won the heavyweight game, 29 to 19. At the end of the third quarter the score was knotted at 16 all and the Tigers crashed through to victory with W. Zimmerman pacing them with 17 points in the entire game. Parker, a Lee guard, was outstanding for the opponents. In the lightweight game Lee won, 12 to 10.

TO WISCONSIN GAME

Billy Conn Wins Decision Over Gus Lesnevich; Looks for Future Bouts

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A weight bout with bicycling Bob Pastor sooner or later because Conn himself wants it.

Conn swarmed over Lesnevich for a $45,000 near capacity house last night. For three rounds he weighed 174 pounds in defending his lightweight championship—this is Billy Conn, the Pittsburgh Adonis who soon set battling among the heavyweights and eventually against Champ Joe Louis.

By winning a 15-round decision over Gus Lesnevich in Madison Square Garden last night Conn just about mopped up all the suitable talent in his class and Manager Johnny Ray is remaining in town to talk business with Uncle Mike Jacobs.

Then he began taking the brakes off his darting left jab, the hook that time after time jarred the Cliffsides. N. J. fighter to a standstill, and the right cross that never, never missed.

High Prep Grid Scorer Looks to New Conquests

Kingsport, Tenn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Swivel-hipped Bobby Clifars, who has scored 362 points in two seasons of high school football, looked around today for new football worlds to conquer.

And the 19-year-old youth—the nation's leading prep scorer last year—has chance aplenty to go just about where he wants to continue his footballing.

The 185-pound triple-threat halfback, closing out his high school grid career yesterday, "guesses" he will cast his lot with Major Bob Neyland at the University of Tennessee. But many college scouts have dangled juicy scholarship offers before him, and he may change his mind.

His brother, Ed, is a varsity end on Tennessee's unbeaten and untied machine.

Bobby scored 20 points last night—bringing his season total to 127—as he led his Kingsport eleven to a 40-0 victory over Morristown, Tenn.

Rudy Rhordanz, his coach, describes him as "one of the most versatile backs I've ever seen."

Bobby also is captain of his school's basketball team, pitcher on the baseball nine and jack-of-all trades in track.

OLDEST RIVALRY

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Yale and Princeton, principals in football's oldest rivalry, met today for the 62nd game since 1873 with about 35,000 spectators expected to see the game.

The dismal record of this year's Yale team, victorious only twice in six games, didn't deceive fans looking for a close game. It's a tradition as old as the series that the Elis and Tigers play for all they're worth against each other.

AIM AT PASSING ATTACK

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Michigan State aimed its offense for today's homecoming football game with Indiana university at the passing attack of Halfback Hal Hursh who is reputed to be one of the best aerial gunmen in the Western Conference. The game is expected to draw 20,000 persons.

1939 College Grid Season Reaches Peak

LOOP DECISIONS AND BOWL BIDS AT STAKE TODAY

Yale-Princeton Battle Indicate Season Is At Climax

By HUGH FULLERTON JR. New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Yale-Princeton game is on at New Haven today and that's a sign (if any is needed) that the 1939 football season has just about reached its peak.

The Yale-Princeton tussle always comes in mid-November, a week before the two teams' seasons end. Most other clubs try to schedule their biggest games about the same time.

Skipping across the sectional boundaries like a halfback with a clear field ahead, today's program of biggest games was this: Missouri—Oklahoma, Northwestern—Notre Dame, Illinois—Ohio State, and Minnesota—Iowa in the mid-west; Tennessee—Vanderbilt, Duke—North Carolina and Georgia Tech—Alabama in the south; Yale—Princeton, Cornell—Dartmouth, Colgate—Syracuse, Carnegie—Holy Cross, Nebraska—Pittsburgh Michigan—Pennsylvania, St. Mary's—Fordham and Tulane—Columbia in the east; Texas A&M—Texas Tech and Texas Christian—Texas in the southwest; Santa Clara—U. C. L. A. and California—Oregon State on the Pacific coast and Colorado—Brigham Young and Utah—Colorado State in the Rocky Mountain Big Seven.

A lot of these games, like that affair at New Haven, stand out only because they always have, but they'll also draw big crowds because they bring together "major" teams of different sections, or because the teams still have outstanding chances of winning sectional or conference titles.

A Real Decision

There's a real decisive affair on at Columbia, Mo., however. Oklahoma's Sooners, unbeaten and tied only by Southern Methodist, come up against Missouri's fine eleven, which lost to Ohio State early this season but hasn't even been threatened in Big Six competition. The winner likely will walk off with the conference title. If Oklahoma comes through it's almost sure to get a New Year's Day bowl bid, but the Tigers and their widely advertised passing star, Paul Christman, aren't likely to be rolled aside without a struggle.

The Duke-North Carolina game was another "natural." There's an old and torrid rivalry and the southern conference title was the main stake.

May Pull Upsets Tennessee and Texas A. and M., both undefeated and untied and ready to put up claims to being the nation's best football team, run up against opponents in position to pull off upsets. Both Vanderbilt and Rice probably have better teams than their dismal records show, and they certainly have nothing to lose by gambling for victory.

It wouldn't be much of an upset, however, if Dartmouth should beat Cornell, generally rated the east's best team. The Indians have spoiled perfect records, for their traditional rivals before.

Ohio State can clinch the Big Ten crown by beating Illinois, as expected, providing Iowa's Hawkeyes fail to negotiate the big Minnesota hurdle. Otherwise it won't be settled until next week, the last of the conference campaign.

Arkansas virtually handed the Texas Aggies the Southwest Conference title yesterday by upsetting Southern Methodist, 14-0.

PITT AT DISADVANTAGE

Pittsburgh, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Injuries kept four regulars on the sidelines and left Pitt at a decided disadvantage in today's inter-sectional battle with Nebraska before an expected 35,000 fans.

Coach Bill Jones said his Huskies haven't won unless Pitt's first stringers could prove themselves "60-minute men." Nebraska hasn't enjoyed a victory over the Panthers since 1921, start of the series between the schools.

Chicago—Everett Rightmire, 133, Sioux City, Ia., outpointed Gene Spencer, 132, Chicago, (81), Hollywood—Lou Salica, 177½, Brooklyn, outpointed Tony Olivera, 115½, Oakland, Calif., (10).

GELTING BRINGS $13,000

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Midnight Star, a nine-year-old saddle horse, brought $13,000 at public auction here. Winner of many championships, the five-gaited black gelding was purchased by Pickens Burton of Dallas, Texas, from the leisure hour stables of San Antonio.

"STOP CHRISTMAN!"

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 18.—(AP)—"Stop Christman!" That's Oklahoma's battle cry in this football mad Missouri university town today as the invading Sooners give the Tigers a crack at their Big Six crown and probable bids to the Orange or Sugar bowls.

Hearing that New York U. used only one man to rush the Missouri passing flash, Oklahoma's coach Tom Stidham shouted "We'll rush Christmas with six men if necessary."

Oklahoma, ranked fifth nationally, depends largely upon two giant ends, Frank Ivy and John Shirk, to confuse Christman, who zoomed into All-America consideration with one-man victories over Nebraska and New York.

Twenty-seven thousand fans bought every available ticket for the game.

BANK OF HOMECOMERS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Wisconsin's football team, still seeking its first Big Ten victory, banked on the encouragement offered by 30,000 homecomers to help it snap out of its losing ways at the expense of Purdue's today.

Purdue was counting on Mike Byelene, whose passing and long run defeated Wisconsin last year, to help upset the Badgers again. Wisconsin looked to George Paskvan, junior fullback and the Big Ten's leading ground gainer, to lead his squad to a win.

Banks Forced to Make Change for Redemption of Federal Food Stamps

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A service charge by banks for redemption of food stamps may lead the federal government to abandon the stamp plan for distributing surplus commodities here, a bank official said today.

The Rochester clearing house will impose a one per cent charge on all Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation stamps cleared after December 1.

Raymond N. Ball, president of the Lincoln Alliance Bank & Trust Company, said Philip Maguire, FSCC vice president, in a telephone conversation said suspension of activities in Rochester, first city to try the plan, was being considered.

William W. Foster, vice president of the clearing house, said the service charge was adopted because the volume of stamps handled necessitated hiring extra help. He said the service charge could be avoided by redeeming the books at the FSCC office.

Grocers, who accept the stamps from relief clients for food, have been turning them in for cash at the banks without charge.

Girl Scout News

Troop 5 met Tuesday at North Central school and decided to divide into three interest groups. One will work to complete second class another will study the home-making field, and the other dramatics. Carol Wirth was elected a new patrol leader. Miss Harrington visited our meeting.

A Brownie troop will start at St. Mary's school on Monday, Nov. 20. Mrs. R. T. Haley and Mrs. John Lacks will act as leaders of this group, which will be made up of girls from 7 to 10 years of age.

Members of the Juliette Low committee from last year will hold office again this year. In case of a vacancy in a troop, a new member will be elected. The first meeting of this committee will be held on Friday, Dec. 1 at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John Davies, 606 Hennepin.

Any scout having credit for cookie money in the office is asked to call at N. office on Friday or Saturday of this week.

Italians were the most numerous foreign-born group in the United States in the census of 1930.

ASHTON DEFEATS KINGS IN BATTLE ON HOME COURT

Aces Win Three Games in Program of Basketball Last Night

Ashton's cagers, showing again that they mean business this season, dethroned the Kings team on the home floor last night by a score of 45 to 25. E. Calhoun was high point man of the game when he scored seven field goals for 14 points to help the Aces. Cain, Ashton center, was close behind with 11 points from five field goals and one free toss.

Center Frye of the invading Kings team lead his mates with 10 points from four field goals and two gift shots.

Ashton took an early lead in the game with 13 points in the first quarter while the opposition was held to eight. From then on through the rest of the game Ashton was never in any great danger.

To make the evening complete the lightweights of Ashton won 35 to 10 and the grade school triumphed 12 to 5.

Meeting of GOP Chairmen Early in Year Asked

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—A group of Republican county chairmen from northern Illinois today were on record against the proposal that they "reserve the right" to select a 1940 primary slate.

Their action in the form of a resolution at a meeting yesterday followed opposite action on a similar resolution by the central Illinois county chairmen at Springfield.

At the closed session attended by half of the 32 county chairmen from the Second Appellate court district they adopted a resolution asking that all members of the Illinois Republican County Chairmen's Association meet at Springfield in January to transact any pending business.

Defeat of the resolution, some chairmen said, would not prevent selection of a recommended slate of candidates if they deem it advisable in January. Last year the county chairmen organized the state association and backed the ticket headed by Richard J. Lyons for senator.

Yesterday's session was presided over by State's Attorney Charles A. O'Connor, president of the county chairmen's association. James E. Hill of Streator was secretary. O'Connor said he planned to ask all the county leaders to meet in January at Springfield.

The chairmen from the Fourth Appellate district are scheduled to meet at Mt. Vernon in the last downstate session.

Many Republicans who are announced or potential candidates for April 9 nominations in the gubernatorial and senatorial primary attended yesterday's meeting. They included Otis F. Glenn, Robert McCormick Adams, George Barrett and Dwight H. Green, all of Chicago; Justus L. Johnson, Aurora; Charles W. Hadley, Wheaton; Richard Yates Rowe, Jacksonville; and Earl B. Searcy, Springfield.

A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican state committee and several other members, also were here for the session. Hill Blackett, of Chicago, national committeeman who had discussed campaign financing at the Springfield meeting, was not present.

Rome—Births are keeping far ahead of deaths in Italy.

The official gazette reported 87,400 births and 41,333 deaths in 98 provinces in the month of September. There were 29,386 marriages. Italy's population presently is listed at 44,417,000.

United States families were divided among home owners and tenants in the ratio of 14 to 15 in the 1930 census.

ON THE SIDES

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers didn't practice for Brooklyn today because Coach Curly Lambeau had to go out to the Polo Grounds to see his son, Don, play for Fordham vs St. Mary's. . . . You go see this week's newsreels then write us a 50-word piece on how Missouri's Paul Christman can be left of any guy's All-America. . . . By the by, a big mid-western paper is getting ready to debunk what it terms Christman's "purely fictional Dizzy Dean antics."

Today's Guest Star. George Short, Chattanooga (Tenn.) News: "When the bowl is called out yonder who'll be there?"

The Willard-Dempsey fight films will be ready for distribution Jan. 15 under the caption, "The Birth of a Champion" . . . The best all-around back in pro football right now is Ace Parker of Brooklyn and it ought to make Nile Kinnick feel good to know the pro coaches regard him the nearest thing to Parker the coolidges will turn out this year. . . . Georgia will give Coach Wallace Butts and all his assistants new three-year contracts.

Bang New Record.

Last week we chronicled that Dale Isaac of Washburn went hog wild and completed eight straight passes against Drake. . . . Whereupon, Robbie Stephens, captain-elect of the Michigan Tech squad, went out and gave brother Isaacs and friends something to shoot at by completing 11 in a row.

Mike Jacobs, James J. Johnston and John Roxborough, one of Joe Louis' managers, were in a 45-minute huddle yesterday. . . . It ain't true, is it, that a couple of Alabama slickers peddled off a phony citrus grove to Jim London, one of our 24—or is it 25—burping champions?

Good Luck, Boys.

Today we received one of those good luck chain letters. . . . It said: "break this chain and you'll have bad luck" . . . which may explain why the letter bore the names of such football celebs as Bert Ingwersen of Northwestern; N. C. Crisp of Alabama; Frank Dobson of Maryland; C. A. Bernier of Hammond-Sidney; D. C. (Pea Head) Walker of Wake Forest; Charley Bowser of Pitt and Tom Stidham of Oklahoma.

PLAN SAME TREATMENT

Iowa City, Iowa, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Calm and confident, the Iowa Ironmen, 7 to 6 victor over Notre Dame, planned the same treatment today for Minnesota's fast-improving Gophers.

Some 50,000 football fans were expected to watch the surprising Iowans go after their sixth victory in seven starts.

Many Hawkeye fans feared, however, that the Gophers would spoil the Iowa homecoming by adding another victory to a string unbroken since they lost to Iowa back in 1929.

ON COACHING STAFF

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Wilbur Kautz, high scoring star of Loyola's basketball team last season, has been added to the school's coaching staff.

Kautz, who scored 341 points last year and rolled up 813 in four years of college play, will have charge of the freshmen; and assist Len Sachs with the varsity.

Kautz also has signed to play pro-ball this winter with the Chicago team in the National Basketball league.

BOTH SEEK COMEBACK

Philadelphia, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Pennsylvania and Michigan, both looking for the path that leads to a successful comeback, met today 45,000 at Franklin field before. Outweighed and upset by Penn State last week, Penn's Quakers were the underdogs despite several changes in the lineup. The return of Forest Evashevski to the blocking back post was expected to aid the Wolverines.

Manteno Probe
Recessed Until
First of Week

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—The special grand jury investigating the Manteno state hospital typhoid epidemic today enjoyed a week-end recess before undertaking the task of weighing evidence taken from 23 witnesses in five days of secret hearings.

The jurors were instructed to reconvene Monday. Their duty is to determine whether criminal negligence on the part of state or hospital authorities was responsible for last summer's fever outbreak and the loss of 52 lives.

State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro expressed satisfaction over the jury's interest and attention to its duty. Not one of the 17 men or six women was absent from any of the sessions which began Monday. The women are the first of their sex to serve on a grand jury in Kankakee county.

The prosecutor said he could not predict when the jury might be prepared to make a presentation to Circuit Judge Luther B. Brattin. In addition to the testimony of the witnesses, bundles of records and correspondence have been collected for study. The jury, moreover, has the privilege of summoning more witnesses or recalling those who have appeared, if it believes more evidence can be obtained.

Principal witness at yesterday's session was Mrs. Lillian Williams, attractive dietitian who has supervised the institution's kitchen for the past 18 months. She was understood to have denied allegations of previous witnesses that kitchen conditions were unsanitary. She was reported to have told the jurors her work was impaired by lack of competent help and adequate facilities and that her requests for correction of the situation went unheeded.

ly hurt.

Mr. Coulton suffered a fractured jaw, six teeth were missing, and his lower lip was in shreds. Dick, his six-year-old son, sustained a possible ankle fracture and cuts on the lower lip, and his three-year-old daughter, Jean, was bruised about the head. Mrs. Coulton and another son, Bill, four, were suffering from shock.

Both automobiles were badly damaged, and were towed to the Sullivan garage at La Moille.

Body to Sycamore

The body of Mr. Buzzell, victim of yesterday morning's tragedy, was removed to the Schwartz funeral home at Sycamore. He was born in 1880, and has resided on a farm four miles north of Sycamore all his life. He was a member of the Methodist church and of the National Grange.

Survivors include his wife, the former Lorena Hall of Sycamore, who sustained severe bruises in the same accident, a daughter, Marjory, who suffered bruises on her head and a leg injury, a son, Howard, whose farm adjoins that of his father, a son, Clarence of Fairdale, and a second daughter, Ruth, of the home. There are also four sisters, Mrs. Carrie Perry of Elgin, Mrs. Nora Helson of Sycamore, and the Misses Mary and Florence Buzzell.

It will be several days before the extent of injuries suffered by Clayton Munson, driver of the Buzzell car, can be determined.

Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson of Moline, occupants of the other car involved in yesterday's crash, were treated at the Harris hospital for minor injuries, and were later taken to their home in an ambulance.

CRASH WEST OF ASHTON

The heavy fog this morning was the cause of an automobile accident at Haenisch's corners, three miles west of Ashton on the Lincoln Highway in which four Chicago people were injured. The car, which was driven by Anthony Paccucci was en route to the Dixon state hospital with Mr. and Mrs. James Carbone and daughter Miss Lorraine as passengers.

With its driver blinded by the fog and unfamiliar with the road-way as he approached the sharp curve, the car left the highway, plunged into the embankment and rolled over several times. Paccucci sustained a broken shoulder and the passengers received numerous cuts and bruises. All were removed to the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital where their injuries were treated after which they returned to Chicago.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter reported that Dr. Emil Hacha, president of the Bohemian-Moravia protectorate, had been taken ill and that his recovery was expected to require considerable time.

Silent on Executions

Berlin officials, meanwhile, remained tight-lipped concerning the executions, which were disclosed last night by DNE, official German news agency.

Reports in informed Prague circles were to the effect that the executions had followed a raid on an illegal printing establishment in the home of a former Czech official.

DNE said the executions, which were accompanied by numerous arrests, were ordered because of assaults on Germans October 28 and November 15 by students described as "followers" of Dr. Benes.

Czechs celebrated the 21st anniversary of the founding of their republic on October 28, defying a German ban on public demonstrations.

The funeral of a Czech student who died of injuries suffered in one of these clashes was made the occasion for another mass demonstration, which resulted in more arrests.

DNE said extraordinary measures taken to preserve order included closing for three years of Czech colleges and academies where leaders in "acts of resistance" were said to have been particularly active.

MOTORMAN DEAD IN CAB

Boston, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A four-car Boston-bound rapid transit train, carrying nearly 500 passengers, sped through a station today with its motorman dead at the controls before it was brought to a stop several hundred yards beyond.

The motorman, Jeremiah Walsh, 60, collapsed between stations, an automatic control slowed the train after it passed the station, and a guard halted it.

HARMON

Young Ladies' Sodality
Nineteen young ladies of St. Flannan's parish met in the parish hall on Tuesday evening for their monthly meeting. The president, Edna Miller presided at the short business meeting. The social hour was in charge of Misses Lucille Petri, Edna Miller and Mary McCormick. A "Professor Quiz" contest, school teachers vs. students made much merriment with the teachers winning, 500 to 400. The next meeting will be held the third Thursday in December. Joyce Garland, Mary Keenan and Helen Long will have charge of the social hour.

Sunday Guests
Mr. and Mrs. John Dimmig entertained the following guests on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Joyce and Junior, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stem of Peoria, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dimmig, Mrs. Dorothy Hill and Elizabeth, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Dimmig and family of Walnut, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lutz of Marengo, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dimmig and baby of Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bell, Roy Hicks, Henry and Emma Dimmig.

Weekly Card Party
Thursday evening the last card party until after the season of Advent was held in the basement of St. Flannan's Catholic church, with a good attendance. High takes were held by Mrs. Charles Apple and Thomas McInerney in 500, and in euchre Mrs. Daniel Leone and Theo. Fitzpatrick held high score. The special prize was won by Miss Josephine Bevilacqua. Lunch was served by band No. 6. On Nov. 28 the ladies of the parish are sponsoring a cafeteria supper in the parish hall, which will be followed by bingo and a dance. The public is invited.

Attend Funeral
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Long attended the funeral services of Mr. Anthony Lauff Wednesday morning at St. Mary's church in Tampico. Mrs. Lauff passed away Monday morning at her home near Tampico following a lingering illness the past three years.

Twenty Year Men
Ellis Kugler, organization director of the Farm Bureau, is endeavoring to find all men, who have been members of the Farm Bureau continuously for 20 years. Some men have a good record but did drop out for a year or so. He is trying to make a complete check and also would like the names of men who have been constantly a member for 25 years. Those from Harmon included in the list of Lee County Farm Bureau members for 20 years are: Peter Kofoed, W. H. Kugler, W. W. Edson, J. E. Mau, A. B. Clatworthy, John Dimmig and George Ross.

Harmon Briefs

Mrs. Hugh Hermes spent Thursday in Sterling.
Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Henkel attended Mrs. Anthony Lauff's wake Tuesday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Allen were callers in Walnut on Friday.
Mrs. Earl Harney of Walnut spent Friday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Henkel.
Mr. and Mrs. Ben Heizeroth attended the chicken dinner at the Evangelical church in Eldena on Thursday.
Mr. and Mrs. Pat Blackburn of Dixon called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCormick on Tuesday.

Birthday Observed
Miss Donna Louise Powers entertained 10 third grade girls on Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in honor of her eighth birthday. Bingo was played and 12 individual prizes were awarded with special game prizes going to Rita Giblin and Donna Powers. Following the recreation hour, the guests formed a line and sang the tune of "Happy Birthday" they marched to the dining room where the refreshment table was delightful with the lighted birthday cake and the favors of marshmallow men and gum drop girls. Each found their place at the table where they enjoyed sandwiches, salad, ice cream and cake. Donna received many lovely gifts in remembrance of her birthday.

Hamilton Club
Mrs. Vernon Hoffman assisted by Mrs. Frank Anderson were co-hostesses to the Hamilton club at the former's home on Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with a song, "Home on the Range" and roll call was answered by 19 members. Officers for the coming year were elected with the following women being chosen: president, Mrs. Hugh Brandenburg; vice president, Mrs. Lester Jones; secretary, Geraldine Raabe; treasurer, Mrs. Loren Hoge. Bingo was played and high prize went to Mrs. Carl Martinson an glow prize to Mrs. Hayden Hedspeh. A delicious lunch was served and the meeting adjourned to meet in December with Mrs. Chris Dimmig.

Turkey Supper
The turkey supper at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening was very well attended. An estimated one hundred partaking of the delicious supper.

Great Lakes Shipping Season Nearing Close
Cleveland, Nov. 15. (AP) — Operators of Great Lakes bulk freighters—which carry iron ore and coal—announced today they were starting to lay up their vessels for the winter.
The Pittsburgh Steamship Company, subsidiary of United States Steel and largest operator on the lakes, will send no more of its carriers to Lake Superior for ore after 6 A. M. tomorrow. The company had in commission this year 64 of its 79 vessels. This means the final cargo for this company will be loaded about Thursday of next week.
Pickands Mather, second largest operator, has laid up already at Toledo the Amasa Stone. It is likely they will send no more vessels to the head of the lakes after this week end.
Numerous other lines now have their vessels on their final trips.

SCHOOL MASTER IN HARRISBURG HONORED GUEST

Starts Fiftieth Year as Superintendent of Growing School

Harrisburg, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—This city paid honor today to a man who has been principal of the high school here for three generations and who begins his 50th year of school work in this community next fall.

Harry Taylor, dean of Saline county educators, was the guest of Harrisburg high school alumni as their school's football team met Mt. Vernon high in Harrisburg's homecoming game.

Of the 3,092 persons who completed their high school work here, the education of only 12 was guided by persons other than Taylor. These 12 were graduated in the 1890's while Taylor taught in a nearby rural school before affiliating with the city school system.

He has been so much a part of the high school system that the initials H. T. H. S., for Harrisburg township high school, often are interpreted as "Harry Taylor's high school."

Taylor already was principal of the city high school when he succeeded T. E. Croninger, now an Indianapolis, Ind., attorney, as superintendent of the city school system in 1898. He also was teaching eight of the 12 classes in the joint school system.

In 1900 he and two other Harrisburg residents, now dead, circulated a petition for an election in which the high school was separated from the grade school system and became township-supported. He also championed a bond issue in a later election which provided funds for a site and the erection of the first township high school.

Has Witnessed Growth
Established in the new building in 1904, he guided the institution through its growth from a student body of 60 to 1,184 who attended during the school year which ended with the graduation of 185 early this year.

During this period Harrisburg grew from an agricultural community of 1,000 population, without electricity, paved streets and sidewalks, to a mining-farming community of 13,000 persons.

The original school building hardly is recognizable now because it is flanked by two wings that trebled its size. The second was completed only a few months ago at a cost of $170,000.

Taylor long has visualized an industrial arts course in which students desiring to learn a trade may do so while they are young, and he is working hard toward that end. The addition of a junior college course also has been contemplated.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor have two children, Inglis M. Taylor, manager of W. E. B. Q., the Harrisburg radio station, and Mrs. Hudson Tellich of St. Louis, Mo., whose husband is basketball and track coach at Washington university, St. Louis.

Insurance Suit Nears Jury in Ottawa Court

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Final arguments will be heard Monday by Federal Judge Phillip L. Sullivan in a suit filed by the First National Bank of Ottawa, Ill., to collect $60,000 from Lloyds of London to cover the bank's loss in a holdup on Oct. 5, 1938.

Testimony was completed in the case yesterday. The bank alleges that it was insured against holdup losses by Lloyds but that the defendant company has refused to pay.

Two of the bank's messengers were robbed of $60,000 by two gunmen in a daylight robbery on a downtown Ottawa street. The money had been sent from the Federal Reserve bank in Chicago and was being taken by the messengers from the postoffice to the bank.

Owen Young to Quit Chairmanship of GE Soon

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Tail, freckled Owen D. Young, who yesterday announced his retirement from the chairmanship of the giant General Electric Company, believes actual domestic need underlies the general business slump in the United States.

Differing with economic observers who have predicted a sharp slump in the spring, Young said in an interview that "a large part" of domestic activity is based, not on preparations to handle war orders, but on needs deferred by uncertainty as to what would happen in Europe.

"I have heard many people say the fall upturn in general business, especially in machine tools and factory equipment, represented efforts of industrial companies to put their plants in order to handle the demand which might come from Europe if the war long continues," Young said.

"I do not agree with this. It is true that American business activity has spurred ahead since the war started, but a large part of the orders placed the past couple of months actually represent commitments deferred the past year or so by the uncertainty seen in those months leading up to the war declaration.

"There may be some tapering off of activity in the spring, once these heavy deferred orders are filled."

Young followed his own rule that a man should "retire at 65" in announcing he would resign the General Electric chairmanship January 1. Gerard Swope will retire as president on the same date, although both will continue as directors.

Longshoremen's Strike Will End Monday Morning

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Five thousand striking longshoremen here have voted to return to work Monday at their old wages, thus ending a walk-out that tied up coastal shipping in and out of New York harbor for two weeks.

The strike, directed against nine coastal shipping lines, had temporarily idled thousands of other maritime employees in Gulf and Atlantic ports, including sailors and office workers.

Seventy-three coast-wise vessels were affected.

The strike was called off last night at a meeting of 2,000 longshoremen on the recommendation of Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (A. F. of L.).

The strikers claimed a "moral victory" although they did not obtain a demanded $1.05 an hour wage rate and a 40-hour week. They will go back to the piers under the old contract scale providing 95 cents an hour for a 44-hour week.

Ryan said that ship operations, although refusing to grant wage increases at this time, had agreed to rectify "unsatisfactory conditions" along the New York waterfront.

He did not say what these conditions were.

National Grange Asked to Oppose Reciprocal Pacts

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Resolutions protesting against reciprocal trade agreements were submitted to the agricultural committee of the National Grange today by delegates from six states.

After hearings and debate by the committee the measures will be submitted to the 73rd annual grange convention before adjournment next Thursday.

The Oregon state grange offered a resolution asserting that the present federal farm program had failed to solve agricultural problems and advocated adoption of the principles of the domestic allotment plan.

Under this plan, the resolution said, farmers would be assured parity prices for the portion of their products which is domestically consumed, the balance going into export channels at world prices.

Similar resolutions were offered by the Virginia, Kansas, Michigan, Texas and Washington delegations.

The Pennsylvania grange contended in a resolution the reciprocal tariff act has had "distinctly harmful effect upon American agriculture and had not achieved results predicted by its sponsors."

The resolution also asserted that home markets had been lost by virtue of trade agreements and that this loss could not be compensated by benefit payments, extension of credit or similar government measures.

Congress was urged not to renew the act when it expires in June, 1940.

MILK PRODUCERS' PROTEST

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The National Cooperative Milk Producers Association today was on record favoring repeal of the federal trade agreement act at the next session of congress.

Members of the federation, which represents leading milk producer organizations throughout the country, at the close of its 23rd annual convention yesterday, passed a resolution urging repeal of the act.

"We believe that the present trade agreement of the federal government as administered by the state department is detrimental to the welfare of agriculture and particularly to the producers of dairy, live stock, and poultry products," the resolution read.

"The so-called, but misnamed, reciprocal trade agreements are particularly harmful to the economic interest of dairy farmers."

The association also urged that the federal government limit the production of milk and make compensation payments to producers. A resolution asked "the establishment of a federal surplus holding pool which will be authorized to purchase all major agricultural commodities at a fixed price level."

OIL IN INDIANA

Vincennes, Ind., (AP)—There was added interest today in the Russellville, Ill., gas field, nine miles north of here, after Horatio Bowman of Alton, Ill., yesterday completed the Scott Gray No. 5 test as a 24,067,190 cubic feet gas producer. The well was the second largest in the field, ranking next to the Hillary Hayes 30,640,000 cubic feet gasser, completed Jan. 9. The production of the new well is in the Buchanan sand at a total depth of 1,111 feet.

Medical Assn.'s 8-Point Program Announced Today

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The American Medical Association's objectives and principles relative to a national health program were set forth today in a unique eight-point platform.

Trustees representing some 115,000 member physicians yesterday adopted the platform, the first of its kind in association history.

Dr. Nathan B. Van Eiten of New York, president-elect, said the association desired to state its objectives in view of pending Federal legislation.

The platform:
1. The establishment of an agency to coordinate and administer all medical and health functions of the Federal government exclusive of those of the army and navy.

2. The allotment of such funds as Congress may make available to any state in actual need for the prevention of disease, the promotion of health and the care of the sick on proof of such need.

3. The principle that the care of the public health and the provision of medical service to the sick is primarily a local responsibility.

4. The development of a mechanism for meeting the needs of expansion of preventive medical services with local determination of needs and local control of administration.

5. The extension of medical care for the indigent and the medically-indigent with local determination of needs and local control of administration.

6. In the extension of medical services to all the people, the utmost utilization of qualified medical and hospital facilities already established.

7. The continued development of the private practice of medicine, subject to such changes as may be necessary to maintain the quality of medical services and to increase their availability.

8. Expansion of public health and medical services consistent with the American system of democracy.

FOR RAIL EQUIPMENT

Chicago—(AP)—A hearing will be held in federal district court Dec. 5 on a petition by trustees of the Milwaukee road asking authority to borrow $5,080,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to pay 80 per cent of the purchase price for 2,000 new freight cars and 18 high-speed freight locomotives. The petition has the approval of the R.F.C.

Capone Holds No Grudges His Brother States

Baltimore, Nov. 18.—(AP)—"Scarface" Al Capone, the humbled "big shot", is ready to cry quits.

That, at least, was the word passed along today by his brother, John, Villanova, Pa., business man, whose name never has been connected with the $25,000,000 crime syndicate Al once ruled in Chicago.

Speaking for the bed-ridden gangster, at the first press interview the Capone family has granted since Al entered the hospital here Thursday, John Capone asserted his brother bore no resentment toward society for his seven years in prison.

"He's in a cheerful mood and doesn't hold a grudge against anybody," the family spokesman said.

He added that the "big shot", who is suffering from paresis, was "a little on edge"—"nervous like anyone coming out of there." By "there", he meant Alcatraz, the Federal prison in California where Capone served most of his sentence for income tax evasion.

He would not comment on the clinical aspects of the case, however, referring all inquiries to Dr. Joseph Moore, Capone's attending physician. Last night, Dr. Moore said his patient was "chronically but not acutely ill."

He replied "no comment" when asked if Capone were rational. Other hospital sources said Capone would undergo treatment involving one of the modern methods of inducing artificially high temperatures.

One method is the malarial treatment, another requires placing the patient in a closed, box-like cabinet—a form of "sweat-box," in which the temperature is raised artificially.

Although John Capone indicated to reporters that, if and when Al was discharged, he would be taken to his Miami, Fla., home, it was widely reported that the gangster, through representatives, had been house-hunting here.

Both the 60th and 75th marriage anniversaries are known as diamond weddings.
